

THE NAVY ACT, 1957

INTRODUCTION

Before India attained independence the Naval Forces were being governed by the Indian Navy (Discipline) Act, 1934 which was passed pursuant to section 66 of the Government of India Act, 1919 (later replaced by section 105 of the Government of India Act, 1935), which empowered the then Indian Legislature to apply to the Naval Forces raised in India the provisions of the U.K. Naval Discipline Act. Accordingly U.K. Naval Discipline Act was modified and the Indian Navy Discipline Act, 1934 was enacted. After independence several constitutional changes were made. Due to this it was felt necessary to change the legislation relating to Naval Forces. In the meantime, in 1950 the revised Army Act and Air Force Act were passed and at that time it was not possible to revise the law regulating the Naval Forces as the then existing Indian Navy (Discipline) Act, 1934 was based on the Corresponding British Act. In U.K. a special committee had been appointed to examine the question of the revision of the British Naval Code. The Government thought that it would be an advantage to await the report of the British Committee. Taking into account of the report of that committee the Indian Navy Bill was introduced in the Parliament.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

The existing law relating to the Navy is contained in the Indian Navy (Discipline) Act, 1934. This Act was passed pursuant to section 66 of the Government of India Act, 1919, (later replaced by section 105 of the Government of India Act, 1935), which empowered the then Indian Legislature to apply to the Naval Forces raised in India the provisions of the U.K. Naval Discipline Act. Accordingly the U.K. Naval Discipline Act, was modified and set forth in the First Schedule to the Indian Navy (Discipline) Act, 1934, was made applicable to the Indian Naval Forces. When the constitutional changes took place, action was taken to adapt this Act and it now appears as a self-contained Act.

2. This Act dealt largely with disciplinary provisions. There were no statutory provisions concerning the various matters of administration, enrolment, grant of commissions etc.

3. It was long considered that this lacuna should be filled and when the constitutional changes took place it became evident that it would be necessary to have a consolidating statute on the subject. In the meantime in 1950, the revised Army Act and Air Force Act were passed by Parliament. It was not possible at that time to draft a revised Navy Bill as the present Act was modelled mainly on the corresponding British Act. In U.K., a special committee had been appointed to examine the question of the revision of the British Naval Code. It was thought that it would be an advantage to await the report of that Committee. The present draft has been made taking into account the report of that Committee.

4. In drawing up the present Bill, the provisions of the Army and Air Force Acts have been borne in mind, but changes have had to be accepted on account of difference of conditions of service of the Navy and Naval traditions and usages.

5. The main object of the present Bill is to make the law self-sufficient by incorporating the necessary provisions of certain other related enactments and regulations and to adapt the existing provisions to suit the new constitutional set-up and present day requirements.

6. The main changes in the existing law are as follows:—

- (a) the maximum punishments have been modified to conform to the agreed decision concerning punishments in the three services;
- (b) provisions have been inserted concerning grant of commissions and enrolment in the service and for prescribing conditions of service;
- (c) provisions have been inserted pursuant to article 33 of the Constitution to restrict or abrogate the application of fundamental rights to the members of the Armed Forces in so far as this is necessary for the maintenance of discipline;
- (d) provisions have been inserted for deductions from pay of officers and ratings for absence without leave, damage to Government property, etc.;
- (e) the penal-sections have been rationalised and a few amendments made which have been necessitated by experience;
- (f) the jurisdiction to try civil offences has been modified to conform to that existing in the Army and Air Force;
- (g) the main point of procedure of Courts-martial have been incorporated in the Bill;
- (h) offences of the non-executive branches of the Navy who were formerly not eligible to sit at Courts-martial have been made eligible, it being provided however, that the majority of the officers will consist of officers of the executive branch; it has also been provided that in certain special cases only officers of the executive branch should sit;
- (i) provision has been made for issue of commissions to examine witnesses;
- (o) the Indian Evidence Act has been made applicable to the procedures of Court martial;
- (k) the judicial review of the Judge Advocate-General of the Navy has been placed on a statutory basis and his qualifications have been prescribed;
- (l) the existing naval Courts-martial procedure permitting the accused to give evidence on oath has been continued with a slight modification to conform to the provisions in the Criminal Procedure Code as amended by the recent Criminal Procedure Code Amendment Act,
- (m) provision has been made for winding up of estates of deceased persons.

102. Objections to members.—The following provisions shall apply to the disposal of objections raised by the prosecutor as well as the accused:—

103. Further objections.—(1) The trial judge advocate shall then ask the accused whether he has any further objections to make respecting the constitution of the court; and should the accused raise any such objection, it shall then be decided by the court, which decision shall be final and the constitution of the court-martial shall not be afterwards impeached and it shall be deemed in all respects to have been duly constituted.

105. Arraignment.—(1) When the court is ready to commence the trial, the trial judge advocate shall read out the charges and shall ask the accused whether he pleads guilty or not guilty.

(2) If the accused pleads guilty, then, before such plea is recorded, the trial judge advocate shall ensure that the accused understands the charge to which he has pleaded guilty and the difference of procedure which will result from the plea of guilty.

(3) If it appears from the accused's replies or from the summary of evidence prepared in the prescribed manner that he should not plead guilty, the trial judge advocate may advise the accused to withdraw his plea.

(4) If the court accepts the plea of guilty, it shall be recorded as the finding of the court and the court shall proceed to take steps to pass sentence unless there are other charges to be tried in which event the sentence shall be deferred until after the findings on such charges are given.

106. Opening of prosecution case.—(1) If the accused pleads not guilty or refuses to, or does not, plead or if he claims to be tried or if in the circumstances mentioned in sub-section (3) of section 105 withdraws the plea of guilty or if the court does not accept the plea of guilty, the court shall proceed to try the accused.

(2) The prosecutor shall open his case by reading the circumstantial letter prepared in accordance with the regulations made under this Act, reading from this Act or the Indian Penal Code (45 of 1860) or other law the description of the offence charged and stating shortly by what evidence he expects to prove the guilt of the accused.

107. Calling of prosecution witness not in the original list.—No witness whose name was not included in the original list of witnesses supplied to the trial judge advocate and the accused in accordance with regulations made under this Act shall be called by the prosecutor unless the trial judge advocate has given notice to the accused of the prosecutor's intention to call such witness and has supplied the accused with a summary of the evidence of such witness.

108. Swearing of interpreter and shorthand-writer.—(1) At any time during the trial, should the court think it necessary, an impartial person may be employed to serve as an interpreter and sworn or affirmed as such in the following manner:—

swear in the name of God

109. Objection to interpreter or shorthand-writer.—(1) Before any person is sworn or affirmed as an interpreter or a shorthand-writer, the accused shall be asked if he objects to such person as not being impartial and the court shall decide the objection.

(2) The evidence given by a witness shall be read over to him by shorthand-writer before the witness leaves the court, if so required by the court or the witness.

111. Plea of no case and defence of accused.—(1) When the examination of the witness for the prosecution is concluded, the accused shall be called on for his defence.

(2) Before entering on his defence, the accused may raise a plea of no case to answer.

(3) If such a plea is raised the court will decide the plea after hearing the accused and the prosecutor and the advice of the trial judge advocate.

(4) If the court accepts the plea, the accused shall be acquitted on the charge or charges in respect whereof the plea has been accepted.

(5) If the court overrules the plea, the accused shall be called upon to enter on his defence.

Sec. 116]

(6) The trial judge advocate shall then inform the accused that he may give evidence as a witness on his own behalf shall he desire to do so and should he make a request in writing to do so, but that he will thereby render himself liable to cross-examination.

(7) If the accused does not apply to give evidence, he may make a statement as to the facts of the case, and if he has no defence witnesses to examine as to facts the prosecutor may sum up his case and the accused shall be entitled to reply.

(8) If the accused or any one of the several accused applies to give evidence and there are no other witnesses in the case for the defence, other than witnesses as to character, then the evidence of such accused shall be recorded and if the accused so desires the witnesses as to character shall be examined and the prosecutor shall then sum up his case and the accused may reply.

(9) If the accused or any one of the accused adduces any oral evidence as to facts other than his own evidence, if any, the accused may then sum up his case on the conclusion of that evidence and the prosecutor shall be entitled to reply.

112. Adjournment to view.—(1) Whenever the court thinks that it should view the place in which the officer charged is alleged to have been committed or any other place in which any other transaction material to the trial is alleged to have occurred, the court shall make an order to that effect and may then adjourn to the place to be viewed, along with the prosecutor and the accused and the person, if any, by whom the accused is represented.

(2) The court on completion of the view shall adjourn and reassemble in the court-room.

113. Summing up by the trial judge advocate.—When the case for the defence and the prosecutor's reply, if any, are concluded, the trial judge advocate shall proceed to sum up in open court the evidence for the prosecution and the defence and lay down the law by which the court is to be guided.

114. Duties of the trial judge advocate.—(1) At all trials by courts-martial it is the duty of the trial judge advocate to decide all questions of law arising in the course of the trial, and specially all questions as to the relevancy of facts which it is proposed to prove and the admissibility of evidence or the propriety of the questions asked by or on behalf of the parties; and in his discretion to prevent the production of inadmissible evidence whether it is or is not objected to by the parties.

(2) Whenever in the course of a trial it appears desirable to the trial judge advocate that arguments and evidence as to the admissibility of evidence or arguments in support of an application for separate trials or on any other points of law should not be heard in the presence of the court, he may advise the president of the court accordingly and the president shall thereupon make an order for the court to retire or direct the trial judge advocate to hear the arguments in some other convenient place.

115. Duties of the court.—It is the duty of the court to decide which view of the facts is true and then arrive at the finding which under such view ought to be arrived at.

(2) The court shall give its findings on all the charges on which the accused is tried.

118. Drawing up of the finding.—(1) The trial judge advocate shall then draw up the finding as announced by the court.

(2) The finding so drawn up shall be signed by all the members of the court by way of attestation notwithstanding any difference of opinion there may have been among the members and shall be countersigned by the trial judge advocate.

(3) Where the finding on any charges is one of not guilty the court shall acquit the accused of that charge.

(4) If the accused is acquitted of all the charges, the court shall, after signing the findings as provided in sub-section (2), be dissolved.

(5) Neither the court nor the trial judge advocate shall announce in open court whether the finding was unanimous or not; but the president shall make a record of the division of voting on each finding without disclosing the vote or opinion of any particular member of the court-martial and such record shall be communicated to the trial judge advocate for transmission to the Judge Advocate General of the Navy.

119. Evidence of character and previous convictions.—(1) If the accused is found guilty on any or all of the charges, the court before awarding punishment may call evidence as to the previous character and qualifications of the accused and in addition to any oral evidence of general character that may be adduced, shall take into consideration the following documents which shall be read by the trial judge advocate in open court:—

(a) for any officer—

(i) any entries against him relating to his previous convictions in the list of officers who have been tried by court-martial; and

(ii) any previous entries against him in the log of the ship to which he may have belonged when the offence or offences for which he is being tried were committed and also any documents, other than such entries in the log, of the nature of a definite censure by superior authority, which log and documents the prosecution is to produce; and

- (ii) his certificate of service; and
- (iii) any entries against him relating to his previous convictions in the list of those who have been tried by court-martial.

(2) The accused may then make a statement in mitigation of punishment and lead any evidence of character if he has not already done so before the finding.

120. Consideration of the sentence.—The court shall then retire and consider and determine on the punishment proper to be inflicted in conformity with the finding, and all the members of the court, whether they have voted for an acquittal or not, shall vote on the question of what punishment is proper to be awarded for the offence of which the accused has been found guilty.

(2) The trial judge advocate shall sit with the court while they are considering the sentence and assist the court in the determination of the sentence but shall not vote thereon.

121. Announcement of the sentence.—(1) When the court has decided on the sentence whether unanimously or by majority, the trial judge advocate shall draw up the sentence in the prescribed form which shall be signed by every member of the court by way of attestation notwithstanding any difference of opinion there may have been among the members and shall be countersigned by the trial judge advocate.

(2) The court shall then be reassembled and the accused brought in and the trial judge advocate shall by direction of the court pronounce the sentence.

(3) The accused shall then be removed and the court dissolved.

122. Adjournment.—(1) A court-martial may, if it appears to the court that an adjournment is desirable, be adjourned accordingly, but except where such an adjournment is ordered, shall sit from day to day with the exception of Sundays until the trial is concluded, unless prevented from so doing by stress of weather or unavoidable accident.

(2) The proceedings of a court-martial shall not, after the commencement of a trial, be delayed by the absence of a member:

Provided that no less than four members are present; and

Provided further that if any member is absent from any part of the trial, he shall not thereafter take any part in the proceedings.

COMMENT

The word "trial" is well understood in criminal law and it ends when the proceedings in trial court come to an end. The various provisions of the Navy Act, 1957 also show that the word "trial" is used in the same sense in the Act; AIR 1969 Bom 502.

123. Provisions relating to dissolution of courts-martial.—(1) A court-martial assembled under this act shall be dissolved—

- (a) when the number of members comprising the court is after the commencement of a trial reduced below four;

(c) by the death of the president or the trial judge advocate;

(d) on the making of a report under sub-section (2) of section 143.

(2) Whenever a court-martial is dissolved by virtue of sub-section (1) the accused may be retried.

124. Ascertaining the opinion of the court.—(1) Subject to the provisions of sub-sections (2) and (3), every question for determination by a court-martial shall be decided by the vote of the majority:

Provided that where there is an equality of votes, the decision most favourable to the accused shall prevail.

(2) The sentence of death shall not be passed on any offender unless four at least of the members present at the court-martial where the number does not exceed five, and in all other cases a majority of not less than two-thirds of the members present, concur in the sentence.

(3) Where in respect of an offence, the only punishment which may be awarded is death, a finding that a charge for such offence is proved shall not be given unless four at least of the members present at the court-martial where the number does not exceed five, and in all other cases a majority of not less than two-thirds of the members present, concur in the finding.

125. Finding that the offence was committed with intent involving less degree of punishment.—Where the amount of punishment for any offence depends upon the intent with which it has been committed and any person is charged with having committed such an offence with an intent involving a greater degree of punishment, a court-martial may find that the offence was committed with an intent involving less degree of punishment and award such punishment accordingly.

126. Alternative findings.—If the accused is charged with one offence and it appears in evidence that he committed a different offence for which he might have been charged under section 91, he may be convicted of the offence which he is shown to have committed although he was not charged with it.

127. Finding lesser offence proved on charge of greater offence.—(1) When a person is charged with an offence consisting of several particulars, a combination of some only of which constitutes a complete minor offence and such combination is proved, but the remaining particulars are not proved, he may be convicted of the minor offence although he was not charged with it.

(2) When a person is charged with an offence and facts are proved which reduce it to a minor offence, he may be convicted of the minor offence although he was not charged with it.

172. Disposal of property of deceased officers.—The provisions of section 171 shall also apply to the disposal of the property of an officer who dies while subject to naval law, but with the following modifications, namely:—

174. Nature of the powers of commanding officer or Committee of Adjustment.—For the purpose of the exercise of his or its duties under section 171 or 172, as the case may be, the commanding officer or the Committee of Adjustment, as the case may be, shall, to the exclusion of all other persons and authorities have the same rights and powers as if the commanding officer or the Committee had taken out representation to the estate of the deceased, and any receipt given by such commanding officer or the Committee, as the case may be, shall have effect accordingly.

Explanation.—“Representation” includes probate, letters of administration with or without the will annexed and a succession certificate issued by a court of competent jurisdiction constituting a person executor or administrator of the estate of the deceased person or authorising him to receive or realise the assets of a deceased person.

175. Powers of Central Government to hand over estate of deceased persons to the Administrator General.—(1) Notwithstanding anything contained in the Administrator-General’s Act, 1913 (3 of 1913), an Administrator-General shall not interpose in any manner in relation to any property of a deceased which has been dealt with under section 171 or section 172 except in so far as he is expressly required or competent to do so by or under the provisions of this Act.

(2) The Central Government may, at any time and in such circumstances as it thinks fit, direct that the estate of a deceased sailor or officer shall be handed over by the commanding officer or the Committee of Adjustment, as the case may be, to the Administrator-General of a State for administration and thereupon such commanding officer or the Committee shall make over the estate to such Administrator-General.

(3) Where under this section any estate is handed over to the Administrator-General, the latter shall administer such estate in accordance with the provisions of the Administrator-General’s Act, 1913 (3 of 1913):

Provided that where the estate is handed over to the Administrator-General before the ship and service debts and other debts in ship or quarters of the deceased are paid, it shall be the duty of the Administrator-General to pay these debts in priority to any other debts due by the deceased.

(4) The Administrator-General shall pay the surplus, if any, remaining in his hands after discharging all debts and charges, to the heirs of the deceased and if no heir is traceable, shall make over the surplus to the person prescribed in this behalf.

(5) The Administrator-General shall not charge in respect of his duties under this section any fee exceeding three per cent. of the total amount coming to or remaining in his hands after payment of the ship and service debts and the other debts in ship or quarters.

176. Disposal of surplus by prescribed persons.—On receipt of the surplus referred to in sub-section (7) of section 171 or clause (ii) of section 172 or sub-section (4) of section 175, the prescribed person shall,—

- (a) if he knows of a legal representative of the deceased, pay the surplus to that representative;
- (b) if the surplus does not exceed <sup>1</sup>[the prescribed amount not exceeding rupees one lakh in value] and if he thinks fit, pay or deliver to any person appearing to him to be entitled to receive the same, without requiring such person to produce any probate, letters of administration, succession certificate or other conclusive evidence of title;
- (c) if the prescribed person does not know of any such representative to whom the surplus could be paid under clause (a), or if the surplus has not been disposed of under clause (b), publish every year a notice in the prescribed form and manner for six consecutive years; and if no claim to the surplus is made by the legal representative of the deceased within six months even after the publication of the last of such notices, the prescribed person shall deposit the surplus together with any income or accumulation of income accrued therefrom, to the credit of the Central Government:

Provided that such deposit shall not prejudice the claims of any person to such surplus or any part thereof, if he is otherwise entitled to it.

177. Disposal of effects not converted into money.—Where any part of the estate of a deceased officer or sailor consists of effects, securities or other property not converted into money, the provisions of sub-section (7) of section 171 or clause (ii) of section 172 and section 176 with respect to the payment of the surplus shall, save as may be prescribed, extend to the delivery, transmission or transfer of such effects, securities or property, and the prescribed person shall have the same power of converting the same into money as a legal representative of the deceased.

178. Termination of liability of commanding officer, Committee, prescribed person and the Central Government.—Any payment or application of money or delivery sale or other disposition of any property made, or purported to be made by the commanding officer, the Committee or the prescribed person in good faith in pursuance of sections 171 to 176 shall be valid and shall fully absolve the commanding officer, the Committee or the prescribed person, as the case may be, as well as the Central Government from all liability in respect of the money or property so paid, applied or disposed of; but nothing herein contained shall be deemed to affect the right of any executor or administrator or other legal representative or of any creditor of the deceased against any person to whom any such payment or delivery as aforesaid has been made.

179. Saving of rights of representative.—Nothing in this Chapter shall affect the rights and duties of the representative of a deceased sailor or officer or any Administrator-General, in respect of the property of such deceased sailor or officer not collected by the commanding officer or the Committee, as the case may be, and not forming part of the surplus handed over to the prescribed person either under sub-section (7) of section 171 or clause (ii) of section 172.

180. Application of sections 171 to 179 to persons of unsound mind.—The provisions of sections 171 to 179 shall, so far as they can be made applicable, also apply in the case of an officer or sailor subject to naval law who is ascertained in the prescribed manner to be of unsound mind notwithstanding anything contained in the Indian Lunacy Act, 1912 (4 of 1912), or who, while on active service, is officially reported missing, as if the said officer or sailor had died on the day on which his unsoundness of mind is so ascertained or, as the case may be, on the day on which he is officially reported missing:

Provided that in the case of an officer or sailor so reported missing, no action shall be taken to dispose of the property under sections 171, 172 and 175 until such time as a certificate under the regulations made under this Act is issued by or under the authority of the Chief of the Naval Staff or other prescribed person that he is confirmed or presumed to be dead.

181. Appointment of Standing Committee of Adjustment in certain cases.—When an officer while subject to naval law dies or is ascertained in the prescribed manner to be of unsound mind or while on active service is officially reported missing, the reference in the foregoing provisions of this Chapter to the Committee shall be construed as references to the Standing Committee of Adjustment, if any, constituted in this behalf in the prescribed manner and such Standing Committee, if constituted, shall alone be entitled to perform all the functions of such Committee unless otherwise directed by the Chief of the Naval Staff.

182. Exercise of powers by other persons.—The functions and powers of the commanding officer in the Chapter may in any case be performed or exercised by any other person appointed in this behalf by the Chief of the Naval Staff.

183. Forfeiture of effects for absence without leave.—If any person subject to naval law is absent without leave for a period of one month (whether he is guilty of desertion or of improperly leaving his ship or place of duty or not) but is not apprehended or tried for his offence, he shall be liable for forfeiture of pay and allowances and other benefits as the Central Government from time to time by regulations provide, and the Central Government, the Chief of the Naval Staff or the prescribed officer may by an order containing a statement of the absence without leave direct that the clothes and effects, if any, left by him on board ship or at his place of duty be forfeited, and the same be sold and the proceeds of the same shall be disposed of as provided in the regulations made under this Act, and every order under this provision for forfeiture or sale shall be conclusive for the purpose of this section as to the fact of the absence without leave as therein stated of the person therein named; but in any case the Central Government may, if it deems fit on sufficient cause being shown at any time after forfeiture and before sale, remit the forfeiture, or after sale pay or dispose of the proceeds of the sale or any part thereof to or for the use of the person to whom the clothes or effects belonged, or his representatives.
